

NuScriptRX names new CEO

January 7, 2014 - Nashville-based NuScriptRX has named a new chief executive officer.

C. Daniel Haron, formerly president of Cigna Pharmacy Management, is the mail-order institutional pharmacy's new CEO, according to a news release. Haron replaces board member Donald Taylor, who has served as interim CEO since July 2012.

The following are excerpts from today's news release:

"We are grateful to Don Taylor for his willingness to serve as our interim CEO and to position our company to attract a CEO like Dan Haron," said Dennis Bottorff, chairman of the board for NuScriptRX. "We welcome Dan to NuScriptRX. He has a superior record of achieving high service, growth and earnings results in our industry."

Haron also served as executive vice president of operations at Cigna Pharmacy Management for three years before accepting the president's role. Prior to his work at Cigna, Haron served as senior vice president and vice president of pharmacy for Brooks and Eckerd Pharmacy. Additionally, Haron was with CVS/Pharmacy for 14 years.

"This is a tremendous opportunity to join a great team in Nashville. NuScriptRX is well positioned as a leader as we deploy our technology driven short-cycle drug dispensing model designed to increase patient safety, reduce waste, medication costs and medication administration time, while providing access around the clock," said Haron.

Haron earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Pharmacy from Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and Health Services.
