HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — November 4, 2022 — Freedom Games today announces that the company has completed its first outside priced-financing round in the company's history, in which the investors injected approximately $10 Million in primary and secondary capital.

The investment in Freedom Games comes on the heels of the indie game publisher's debut in 2020. "When seeking a partner to join us for the next part of our exciting journey, we knew we needed someone with a background in bringing compelling experiences to broad audiences, and Play Ventures absolutely does," said Ben Robinson, COO and Co-Founder of Freedom Games. "We couldn't be more proud to work together. Not only will this enable us to bring even more high quality indies to fruition and continue growing our platform for creators to share their content, but to also stay committed to our developer first mindset by continuing to invest in our suite of tools and services for indie developers," said Donovan Duncan, CEO and Co-Founder of Freedom Games.

Play Ventures shares Freedom's vision for a diverse industry elevating unknown game development talent from around the world. Play's investment will accelerate Freedom's growth, allow the hiring of additional production staff to expand and better serve indie developers, expand their community platform: wiki.gg, and grow the Freedom Games' indie game catalog even further.
